

How to obtain a 24-hour access to licenses for ArcGIS Pro and ArcGIS Desktop

When using the Concurrent license, it is required that the user log in to software.gis.lu.se with an approved Lucat account. This gives you access to the license server for 24 hours.

GIS Software

This site covers all you need to install ArcGIS Pro, ArcGIS Desktop and FME. Log in to get access to software and licenses.

We provide two separate version of ArcGIS: ArcGIS Pro and ArcGIS Desktop. Unless you have been told otherwise, you should probably use ArcGIS Pro since that is the newest version.

Note that there is no longer a central funding for GIS Software. From May 2022 licenses are only available for employees and students in the departments that have an agreement with the GIS Centre.

To reach our license servers you need to have an approved IP address or Lucat account.

If your unit is on the list and you have problems connecting, contact our support.

Units listed below have agreements. Units with users that have to log in at software.gis.lu.se (this site) with the LUCAT account (before each session) are underlined.

If your unit is not listed, contact your supervisor/unit director/prefekt.

- Department of Physical Geography and Ecosystem Science
- Department of Geology
- CEC
- Department of Biology
- Faculty of Social Sciences
- Faculty of Humanities
- School of Economics and Management
- Division of Occupational and Environmental Medicine

Make a habit of logging into software.gis.lu.se before each session to avoid losing connection to the license server during a work session.

Under the tab License servers, you can check that your IP-address is approved and see when your access will expire. You can log in at any time to extend your access for 24 hours.
